The Nurse Licensure Compact became effective in Iowa on July 1, 2000 and is either in effect at this time in your state of residence or will be in effect by the time your ARNP registration is scheduled for renewal.

The compact does not include advanced registered nurse practitioners. Current Iowa ARNP licensure is required for ARNP practice in Iowa.

A valid license as a registered nurse is a precondition for ARNP licensure in the State of Iowa. Because you reside in a compact state, you must hold an RN license in your state of residence. The license issued by another compact state to a nurse whose primary state of residence is that state meets the requirement for RN licensure. Primary state of residence is the state where a nurse holds a driver’s license, pays taxes, and/or votes.
